

I have been asked many times already, “How is your trip going?”. Every time I become utterly speechless. The truth is there is no way to describe the many new friendships made, inspiring individuals who have spoken much wisdom into my mind, and being constantly shaped and stretched in the presence of God. These past couple of weeks have forever changed my life, seeing and experiencing from the other side of missions has set fire to the burden in my heart for the missions field and souls in general. When I stop in the mist of it all and realize this is merely the beginning.. Oh how my faith is increased in what all God can do, and has yet to do!
