In the Book of Acts it is recorded that fire fell from heaven and rested upon each person present in the Upper Room that day. This picture was taken while I was spending time with a contact. The conversation ended that day with the opportunity to introduce her to more knowledge about the Holy Spirit. AIMing has taught me many things, but this week especially taught me how to shine a light in a city that has only ever seen darkness.

It started to become chilly and rainy. It seemed to slow down the evangelism techniques that were used in September. Having reached over 100 contacts by this time, the cold weather allowed for deeper connections with the hopes of doors opening and Bible studies being taught. Because of our focus on building relationships, we have moved faces on the street to places in our hearts. Relational evangelism is a method that will aid in end time revival.

The days have started to grow darker, much quicker. This has given the team an opportunity to go further into training to prepare us for the revival that is coming. We have begun teaching team members Bible studies and have evangelistic training such as: learning to pray someone through to the Holy Spirit and praying with someone for healing. We have also been busy with two groups of which God has opened the door. We meet with them one to two times a week in between meeting regularly with other strong contacts.

October 22-31, 2018

Spiritual warfare is essential to any evangelistic effort. For the last part of this month, God has been calling the team to prayer, intercession, and spiritual warfare. Revival is coming, but not without a fight. In the midst of this, new contacts have been made, while other contacts have grown deeper. It has been prophesied that more doors will open soon. I cannot wait to see what November holds!
