

Dear Global Missions,

I am getting ready to come back to the States as my AIM term is coming to an end. In the last month, my students at the Bible College have finished with their term and performed very well! I am so proud of my students. They have such a hunger for the things of God, and when I come back believe they will be working for the Lord. In the last month I have been able to teach a few lessons during Wednesday night services and have worked with the choir here in Kampala.

As I prepare to leave, I can truly say I am going to miss the pure worship in these churches, the hunger for the Lord in these people and am especially going to miss the students at the Bible College who have given their life for the Kingdom.

The people of Uganda have taken up such a big piece of my heart and have blessed me more than they know. I know that the church in Uganda will continue to have revival! It is my hope to return in the next year, and pray that I will make my way back to this field!

-Allison Herzog